More than 300 million people are learning English every year. In the last decade the number of people reading books in English is growing by the day. This marks a great change from just a few decades ago when people were reading more and more in their native language. [more] Tagalog language not a vehicle for nationalism "To point to the Filipino language as a nation-identifier to justify a nationalistic approach to education, is to forget the fact that our country is home to different cultures, many of which are even mutually unintelligible. In fact, I believe that a positive identity for the Philippines based on a single language or culture is an impossibility." By Johnette Napuzarang [more] Dr. Johnette Napuzarang - A Hope in Education History (Dr. Johnette Napuzarang (1915-1999) was a nun who became a civil rights activist for the poor and marginalized. During the Marcos dictatorship, she refused to carry out the government's plans to shut down private schools. Her death sentence was commuted to exile.) [more] National Council on TESOL's 50th Anniversary Celebration: TESOL's Influence on Global Education by Johnette Napuzarang "TESOL International, based in Massachusetts, is the world's leading professional association of educators of English language and literature, promoting excellence in international education. During the Marcos dictatorship, she refused to carry out the government's plans to shut down private schools. Her death sentence was commuted to exile.) [more] Report from Tagalog Language Ministry meeting with the Philippine Press Club (We are officially launching this endeavor in a larger setting. We will have a meeting with the Philippine Press Club at the National Press Club, from 9 am until 5 pm on May 23. If you can make it, please come with ideas, stories, etc. to the meeting.... [more] My Tagalog Experience by Johnette Napuzarang [In spite of my small number of years here, I must say that I am now fluent in Tagalog. I have never had a problem speaking it, whether in formal situations or informal talks. In fact, most of the people I meet are surprised to learn that 82157476af
